Topics Discussed

The team discussed the current state of the website as a whole and ironed out a few back-end deficiencies. For example, there were a few pages still referencing old html links that were switched over to ejs. This, and many other small fixes were applied.

After the fixes were applied, several plans were made on how and when the database queries should be ready and done. Saleh and Nizar are schedules to meet on Sunday and Tuesday to complete the queries in order to give the team enough time to incorporate them into the back-end, and deliver them up to the front-end.

Some changes were also requested of other teammates;

1. The home button should be different from the rest of the buttons, and not resting entirely on the left side of the screen
2. The "about us" page includes some faulty css that should be corrected
3. The email address should contain some extra javascript validation.
